In these tough economic times, it's impossible to ignore all the stories of financial doom and gloom on the pages of your newspaper. "Where's the good news?" you wonder. Well, you turned to the right page! SHEfinancial group inc. offers women optimism for their financial future by answering questions like: "What's going on, how does it affect my family and what should I do?"

"It's a crucial time for women to consider their long-term financial health," says SHE president and founder Penny Deming, "We help women make sound, secure decisions for their future by sharing, helping and empowering."

SHE is a full-service financial services agency run by women for women. From young professionals saving for their first home to "mompreneurs" to grandmas hoping to leave legacies, SHE offers a wide variety of services to suit every woman's needs. Whether you want advice on money management, life insurance, critical illness, estate planning or wealth accumulation, SHE's your gal!

SHE even succeeds in making finances fun by offering women's workshops in their home with a trusted group of friends, as well as SHEtoSHE socials in relaxed settings. With its innovative approach to helping women achieve their goals, SHE is at the forefront of the financial services industry.
